an ordinance could be passed putting them into effect for any period of time up to 10 years. Upon acceptance by the water company, this ordinance would officially establish the rate charges.

If an agreement could not be reached, it is probable either the city or the water company would file a proposed schedule with the state utilities commission. The commission would make a study of the rate situation, hear protests, and, if a controversy developed, appraise the company's property and fix rates that would yield enough money to cover operating expenses and pay the company a return on its investment.

Refund Provision

Due to the fact that rate fights often extend over a period of years, the utilities commission might permit the company to collect a protested rate on the condition that it deposit a bond sufficient to guarantee water consumers a refund on their bills in the event the protested rate was found to be excessive. Marion residents will recall this procedure was followed in the telephone rate case here and that the company made refunds to its customers for excessive rates collected during the rate fight period.

Water rate negotiations have not advanced to the place where Marion residents can obtain even a general idea of what rate charges will be suggested either by the city or the water company.

Mayor Frederick C. Smith, when asked for his opinion regarding future rates, said he does not feel any prediction could be made.

George Whysall, water company manager, when asked what schedule of rates he thought his company might suggest, said, "I haven't the slightest idea."

Company's Forecast

The only indication of what proposal the water company might make was contained in a letter written by Reeves J. Newsom of New York City, president of the water company, to Mayor Smith early last November stating, in part, "and we know that as a result (of the company's loss of large users of water in the last 10 years) there is no possibility of rates being lowered...."

Several city officials have expressed the opinion privately that the city should insist on a rate reduction, but no definite figures have been advanced excepting a rate schedule proposed by City Solicitor Ralph E. Carhart to cut present rates approximately 33 per cent. Council members, however, have decided not to proceed on that proposal.

In view of the differences between the opinions of city and water company officials on future rates, a rate fight before the state utilities commission appears probable. It is interesting, therefore, to study the basis on which rate controversies are decided by the commission.

Basic Formula

A commission official said utility laws entitle the company to a rate sufficient to pay actual operating costs (provided they are shown to be justified), taxes, an allowance for depreciation and a reasonable return on the value of its property. Six per cent, he said, is regarded as a fair rate of return.

Applying this formula to the company's experience in 1934, as shown by its report to the utilities commission, it is apparent that the company spent $0,333.53 for operating purposes, $25,726.23 for taxes and made an allowance of

DOUBT RAISED ABOUT ONE-MILL LEVY VOTE

Prosecutor Asked To Decide If County Commissioners Waited Too Long.

Question of whether the proposed one-mill real estate levy set up by the county commissioners to finance poor relief can be placed before voters at the May 12 primary election was presented to Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Michel today for his opinion.

There is a question of whether the resolution providing for the levy vote reached the county board of elections in time to be legally placed on the ballots. The commissioners passed their resolution yesterday to place the measure before voters and certified it to the board of elections this morning. Election officials placed the matter before Prosecutor Michel, who said he will give a ruling this afternoon or Wednesday.

The commissioners passed a resolution calling for the levy on April 21. The purpose of the levy, which would run two years, is to provide funds for poor relief in the county.

BULKLEY FIGHTS GONGWER

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., April 28—U. S. Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, who has criticized W. B. Gongwer's leadership of the Cuyahoga county Democratic party at intervals in the last two years, called on Democrats last night to oust Gongwer as county chairman, at the primary May 12.

KING FUAD DIES; PRINCE TAKES THRONE

King Fuad I of Egypt, left, died today after a long illness and his son, Crown Prince Farouk, right, now in an English school, will come to the throne under a regency until his 18th birthday. The prince is now 16.

Need of Special Levy Shown in Opening Talk

Service Club Votes Support to City Proposal as Campaign Is Launched by Council President.

The opening gun in the campaign to pass the 3.2 mill levy for city operating expenses at the May 12 primary was fired last night when Russell C. Snare, president of council, addressed members of the Service club at their weekly dinner at Hotel Harding.

At the same time the levy was given the first of a number of indorsements expected from civic organizations when the Service club members adopted a resolution in which they expressed their approval of the plan and their intention to support it in the primary.

Mr. Snare went into the plan in detail, outlining the need for the levy and the use to which the additional funds will be put by the city should the levy be given a favorable vote at the polls.

He opened his talk with a comparison of the city's operations in 1926 and 1935. During this period the city's income fell off rapidly, dropping from $332,165.62 in 1926 to $236,585.67 in 1935. Taxes from real estate and personal property, due to the 10 mill limitation, revaluation of property and other changes in the law, fell off $107,326.59 in 1935 under 1926.

Substitute Inadequate

It was the intent of the legislature, Mr. Snare said, that the sales tax, liquor and other license fees, would make up the loss in real estate taxes. This has not worked out in this manner, he indicated, as the income from this source in 1935 amounted to only $51,047.13, leaving the city with a 1935 loss in revenue of $56,568.95 from the amount received in 1926. In spite of this drastic reduction the city is now giving in practically all inlances the same service it did eight years ago.

In stressing the need for the levy Mr. Snare declared that the present administration is living as economically as possible. He pointed to actual permanent savings of $17,140 made this year. In addition to this, he said, salaries of elective officials, employes, police and firemen have been appropriated on a 45 per cent basis, actually working a hardship in the majority of cases on those who serve the city and look to it for their living.

Savings In Detail

The permanent savings were itemized by Mr. Snare as follows:

Reduction in the salary of the foreman of the sewage treatment works, $480; combination of the offices of service and safety director, $900; elimination of a clerk in municipal court, $1,200; elimination of the office of police prosecutor, $1,380; reduction in the salary of the humane officer, $480; reduction in appropriations for incidentals, $1,000; and abolition of the firemen's and police pension systems, $12,000.

City Income Cut

In pointing to the need for the levy Mr. Snare said the city's estimated income for this year, as certified by County Auditor Harry V. Mounts, would be $222,140.24. This, he said, is $14,000 less than

Tax Bill Change Asked To Avoid 'Lag' in Revenue

Hill Suggests Making Dividend Year Same as Taxable Year To Shun Losses.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 28—The house ways and means committee voted today to offer an amendment to the tax bill designed to remove a "lag" in revenue production estimated to amount to $100,000,000 in the first year.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill, Democrat of Washington, of the tax subcommittee said the amendment would be a "simple proposition" of making the dividend year the same as the taxable year for corporations.

Amendments Next

The decision was reached as the house began the last minutes of general debate on the tax program and prepared to consider amendments.

As now written, the bill, which was estimated to raise $803,000,000, would permit a lag by reason of the fact that corporation dividends paid out of 1936 income in part might be declared in the first two and a half months of 1937 and not taxed on the hands of stockholders until they filed income tax returns in 1938.

The amendment, Hill said, will in effect, require corporations to anticipate last quarter earnings and declare out dividends during the last quarter without actual figures on income for the period.

But, he explained, if dividends should exceed earnings, a corporation could obtain tax credits in the next year, or the one thereafter, for the excess.

King Maps Substitute

While the house neared the end of general debate on the bill intended to raise $800,000,000 through revising the corporate tax structure and through other revenue devices, Sen. King, Democrat of Utah, drafted a substitute for the whole program. He would seek to raise $1,000,000,000 by increasing the rates in the present income tax and corporation levy schedules.

The house debate was brisk yesterday. Rep. Snell, Republican of New York, minority leader, opposed what he called "new taxes on our people to further encourage this shameful extravagance of political boondoggling."

BORAH SLATES SIX OHIO ADDRESSES NEXT WEEK

Ada, Zanesville, East Liverpool, Toledo, Columbus and Cleveland on Idaho Senator's Itinerary.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 28—Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho will wind up his Ohio campaign for presidential delegates with a series of six speeches next week, his state campaign headquarters announced today.

Prior to his final week's appearance, he will address a rally of central Ohio supporters here Thursday evening. Because of his desire to remain in Washington as long as possible to keep an eye on the tax bill, his proposed Springfield appearance Thursday has been canceled. It had been planned that he appear at a noonday luncheon there.

The first speech of his week's campaign prior to the primary May 12 is to be made at East Liverpool, May 4. His next stop will be at Zanesville, May 5, then at Ada, May 6; Toledo, May 7 and concluding his campaign at Cleveland, May 8.

"I'm prepared to come to Ohio for the entire week beginning May 4," the senator told his Columbus headquarters over the telephone last night, "and I propose to deal plainly with the problems confronted there."

Interpreting Borah's statement, Willard Miller, president of the Central Ohio Borah for President club, said "that means he'll stamp the 'favorite son' setup for what it really is. It means he'll vindicate the loyal admiration of countless thousands of Ohio Republicans who regard Borah as the logical nominee of their party for president."

Former Rep. Frank Murphy of Steubenville, a vice president of the Central Ohio Borah organization, will introduce the senator at the Columbus rally, headquarters said.

LONG SICKNESS FATAL TO FUAD

Egyptian Ruler Succumbs to Throat Ailment Aggravated by Gangrene.

PRINCE TO MOUNT THRONE

Will Rule Under Regency Until 18th Birthday; Trio of Rulers Kept Secret.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Egypt, April 28 — King Fuad I of Egypt, 68-year-old friend of the British, died today after a long illness.

The illness was aggravated over the week-end when a gangrenous condition developed in his throat, preventing him from taking nourishment.

Crown Prince Farouk, 16 years old and now attending school in England, will come to the throne under a regency until his 18th birthday. The regency will be composed of three men whose names were written by King Fuad on a sheet of paper and sealed in an envelope.

Dies at 8 A. M.

Premier Ali Pasha Maher, in making the official announcement of his sovereign's passing, said death came at 1 p. m. local time (6 a. m. Marion time).

The news came as a shock to the population of Cairo following earlier reports that the monarch had rallied after a better night.

Only this morning, the king had called his premier and other officials to the palace and insisted on transacting state business.

Fuad, who celebrated his 68th birthday anniversary March 26, had been in indifferent health many months. He had never fully recovered from his serious illness of 1931 when numerous foreign specialists were summoned to the summer palace at Montazah.

Politics Impeded Recovery

The troubled political situation in Cairo, including the revival of the Wafd party strength, leading up to recent street rioting, the interplay of British and Italian opinion, and the emphasis on military questions made it more difficult for the Egyptian monarch to throw off the lingering effects of his 1931 illness.

His death came at a time when Anglo-Egyptian relations had only recently progressed from the riot stage, caused by agitators, to peaceful negotiations for a treaty of alliance.

To the extent which his death now creates a certain internal in-

Drinking in Auto Penalty Assessed Here First Time

A phase of the state liquor law was brought into play for the first time here yesterday when Elmer Guyton, 50, of 340 Greenwood street, was arrested on a charge of consuming intoxicating liquor in a motor vehicle.

In municipal court this morning Guyton pleaded guilty and was fined $25. The offense carries a penalty of imprisonment of 10 to 30 days or a fine of from $25 to $200 or both.

Guyton was arrested with O. B. Lavelle, 47, colored, of 602 Grant street, while they were sitting in a parked car on Jefferson street. Lavelle pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of illegal liquor and also was fined $25 in municipal court this morning. Both men pleaded not guilty yesterday afternoon but changed their pleas to guilty this morning. Police said the bottle of liquor owned by Lavelle did not bear the seal of the state liquor department.

Officials of the court said today this was the first time the law prohibiting drinking in motor vehicles had been invoked here. Arrest of Guyton was based on section 6064-65, covering the liquor laws, which makes it an offense to drink intoxicating liquor in a motor vehicle.

FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE!

Harps and Angel Families Move Here On Same Day.

Marion can't be such a "bad" place in which to live after all.

At least two prospective new residents bearing the colorful names of "Harps" and "Angel" have decided it's just the town for them. It is coincident that on the same day this week a local real estate dealer had personal inquiries from W. F. Harps of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Angel of Detroit, regarding the rental of homes here. Both stressed the desirability of Marion as a home because of its central location and convenience in their business connections.

CALLED BY DEATH

JOSEPH T. MATTHEWS

DEATH TAKES J. T. MATTHEWS

Prominent Marion Business Man Dies After 11-Week Illness.

LUMBER COMPANY OFFICIAL

Funeral Services To Be Held Thursday at 2:30 P. M. at Residence.

Death claimed Joseph T. Matthews, 72, secretary of the Marion Lumber Co., today at 8 a. m. at his home at 1043 East Center street.

Eleven weeks ago Mr. Matthews' health began to fail markedly, and uremia developed, causing death.

Mr. Matthews' career as a prominent Marion business man began in 1890, when he became secretary-treasurer of the Marion Malleable Iron Co.

Four years later he took charge of the books of Lindsey & Lawrence which was succeeded in 1896 by the former Marion Lumber & Coal Co. Mr. Matthews was secretary-treasurer of that company at a time when the late T. J. McMurray was vice president and the late M. Lawrence was president. In 1905 the Wollanweber Lumber Co. purchased the Marion Lumber & Coal Co. and Mr. Matthews was retained as secretary-treasurer. The company was reorganized in 1911 as the Marion Lumber Co and Mr. Matthews was made secretary.

Native of Marion

Mr. Matthews, a member of one of the county's pioneer families, was born in Marion and reared and educated in the city schools. For six years after he left school he worked in the county recorder's office under the late Solomon H. Rupp. For a period of years prior to 1889 when he became deputy clerk of courts for a year, he was associated with his father in a grocery store in Marion.

His father was Rev. Albin D. Matthews, a Methodist minister who filled appointments on the Delhi, Norton, LaRue and Middleton circuits and after retiring became a grocer. Rev. Matthews was born in Pleasant township and was a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university in Delaware. Mr. Matthews' grandfather, J. B. Matthews, served in the War of 1812.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthews were close friends of the late President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding, and were always in the circle of intimate friends invited to the reception at the Harding home on New Year's eve. Friends of Mr. Matthews recalled this morning that he was the snare drummer in the band with which he and the late President played in Marion and surrounding communities when they were young men. Mr. and Mrs. Matthews were members of the former Owl Dancing club, a group of Marion residents who years ago used to dance in a hall on the site of the present Elks club on South State street.

Funeral Services Thursday

Mr. Matthews was a member of the First Presbyterian church and of the Retail Lumber Dealers of Ohio.

He was born Sept. 14, 1863, to Albin D. and Jane E. Roberts Matthews. Three years after his birth his mother died, and later Rev. Matthews married Mrs. Eleanor T. Bowe, daughter of another pioneer family of the county.

Mr. Matthews was married on Feb. 10, 1888, in Findlay to Miss Josey Ruhl.

Surviving are the widow and one sister, Mrs. Mary B. Keil of 377 South Main street. A sister and two brothers preceded Mr. Matthews in death.

The funeral will be conducted Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at the home by Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be made in the

WOULD RETAIN PRESENT HEADS

Ordinances Rescinding Legislation Setting Up New Management System Read.

VOTE SET FOR THURSDAY

Committee Report Follows Objections To Change Raised by Medical Organizations.

City council took the first step last night in a move to reconsider its recent action changing the system of management of the City hospital.

An ordinance recreating the position of superintendent-manager, now held by Joe E. Grundy, was given one reading and tabled for final action at a special meeting Thursday night. This ordinance, together with two additional ones pertaining to the changes at the hospital will, if passed, completely rescind council's action of April 13 abolishing the positions of superintendent-manager and supervisor of nurses and replacing them with a superintendent in charge of both phases of hospital operation. Thursday night's special meeting has been called for 7 o'clock.

Council also tabled the proposed ordinance creating a boxing and wrestling commission until Thursday night. A proposal by Councilman Clarence Hart requiring Dr. John LoCricchio, hospital pathologist and city health commissioner, to submit a detailed monthly report of activities in the pathological department was submitted to the franchise and ordinance committee for its recommendation.

The ordinance recreating the position of superintendent-manager at the hospital was brought before council last night upon recommendation of the new hospital committee. It was introduced by Harry D. Cahill, chairman of the committee, who also moved that the ordinance be tabled after being given one reading. The ordinance is designated an emergency measure and would take effect immediately upon passage.

Would Continue Present Plan

The two additional ordinances to be introduced Thursday night call for restoration of the position of supervisor of nurses, now held by Miss Carmelita O'Donnell, and abolishment of the position of superintendent. Miss Margaret R. Parker of Dayton, former hospital head in South Bend, Ind., has been hired for the latter position effective May 13 and would supervise all phases of hospital operation.

Recommendations by the hospital committee that the change in management of the institution be reconsidered are a result of protests made by the Marion County Academy of Medicine and the Marion chapter of the Pan-American Medical society. Both organizations of physicians vigorously criticized the change, proposed and recommended by Mayor F. C. Smith.

Asked why the hospital committee is recommending that council reconsider its action one member of the committee explained, "that change created such a rumpus in town something had to be done."

Members of the hospital committee are Harry D. Cahill, chairman, D. R. Biggart, Hayse Rogers, Robert H. Ittel and W. M. Fahlan. All five previously voted for the change in management.

Caucus Held

The ordinance recreating the position of superintendent-manager was drawn up by City Solicitor Ralph E. Carhart just before the start of council meeting, after the hospital committee held a brief caucus in the office of Mayor Smith.

Final action on the proposed creation of the boxing and wrestling commission has been postponed until Thursday night to give the ordinance and franchise committee an opportunity to discuss the legislation with the acting city boxing commission. Copies of boxing ordinances have been received from Columbus, Akron and Sandusky for study by the committee.

Councilman Clarence Hart's proposal to require the city pathologist to submit a monthly report was referred to the ordinance and franchise committee for recommendation of the proper legislation.

"Since there is a provision in the ordinance creating the position of pathologist that entitles him to a certain percentage of money from private work I think it is only right that council should have a detailed report of all business going through his hands," Hart said, in making his proposal. "As the pathologist is also city health commissioner taking care of public cases he should make a detailed report of the number of calls he makes and the medicines dispensed in each case and the bills contracted for supplies," Hart continued.

He proposed that the pathologist's report contain the number of specimens for examination, both for the hospital and the city, all private specimens sent to him, the names of the physician submitting the specimens and the

STOCKS STAGE SPOTTY UPTURN

Select Issues Gain Up to Two Points While Other Recent Leaders Recede.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 28 — There were selective recoveries of fractions to two points or more in today's stock market, but many of the recent leaders again were in retreat.

Scattered rails and specialties gave the best performance, while the steels, motors and copper were slow to rally. The close was irregular. Transfers were around 2,250,000 shares.

The day's proceedings were marked by a sharp morning sell-off that put the ticker tape several minutes behind floor transactions for awhile.

Among the better acting stocks were Douglas Aircraft, Johns-Manville, Loew's, Northern Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Delaware & Hudson.

U. S. Steel and General Motors dropped about 2 points each at one time but came back near the finish. Laggard shares included Bethlehem, National Steel, American Telephone, Case, Kennecott, International Nickel and Anaconda.

Foreign currencies were about even in terms of the dollar. Bonds did better. Commodities were mixed.

Sentiment in the boardrooms was mixed, prior to the start of trading, with the analysts studying government items for market clues.

The favorable General Motors statement, coming after yesterday's close, was about in line with previous forecasts.

Announcement that Secretary Morgenthau will borrow an additional $50,000,000 weekly to help finance payments of the soldiers' bonus was interesting to banking quarters, some of which are now looking for a large government bond issue on June 15.

At the beginning of foreign exchange transactions the French franc was .00½ of a cent firmer at 6.58½ cents and sterling was unchanged at $4.95¾.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN TO MEET THURSDAY

Miss Gertrude Jones of Findlay To Speak at Luncheon Session.

All Republican women in the county and vicinity are invited to attend the meeting which will open with a covered dish luncheon.

Miss Jones, who is one of eight candidates for delegate-at-large to the national Republican convention at Cleveland in June, will discuss campaign issues. Mrs. W. N. Harder is president of the county women's group.

Official Figures on Rainfall Minimize Beneficial Effect and Dry Spell Foreseen.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 28 — Wheat scored all around upturns in price today after a hesitant start. Opening unchanged to ¼ cent up, May 97⅞@98, July 87@87¼, wheat soon showed a general advance. Corn started at ⅝ decline to ¼ gain, May 61⅜@⅝, and then firmed.

FOUR-YEAR TERM LAW INTERPRETED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 28—Attorney Gen. John W. Bricker advised Secretary of State George S. Myers today that the bill providing four-year terms for all county offices would apply to all county officials elected this fall. The bill, however, does not become effective until July, after primary elections May 12.

Because of this, some had expressed the belief that it might not affect terms of officials elected in November. Bricker held that the term provided at the time of election in November governs and, therefore, all county officials would be chosen for four years.

FAMINE DEVASTATES CHINESE PROVINCES

Number of Dead and Starving Estimated at From 10 to 30 Million.

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, Szechwan Province, China, April 28—A terrible famine sweeping Szechwan and north Honan provinces assumed the proportions of a national disaster today with estimates of the number of natives dead or facing death ranging from 10,000,000 to 30,000,000.

Chinese vernacular newspapers reported that some hunger-maddened victims were resorting to cannibalism and that other starveling parents were selling their children to gain money for food.

The appalling conditions were attributed to repeated floods, followed by unusually dry summers, and to successive disastrous incursions by Chinese Communist soldiers who have swept the country like a plague of locusts in the last two years.

Bands of armed men, numbering 1,000 to 5,000, are roving the countryside, terrorizing, plundering, kidnaping and killing.

In some sections of Szechwan province, in west China proper, once China's "great granary," more than 70 per cent of the towns and villages have been destroyed by Chinese Communist soldiers who have been unpaid and starved.

PENNSYLVANIA VOTE WATCHED

Politicians Await Results To Glean Hint of November Trend in Keystone State.

BRECKINRIDGE IN CONTEST

Gives Roosevelt First Statewide Opposition; Borah Only Republican Running.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 28—Political attention was centered today on Pennsylvania where observers sought in the presidential primary vote a possible hint of November sentiment in the keystone state.

In Col. Henry Breckinridge of New York, President Roosevelt meets his first state-wide primary opposition.

Sen. Borah of Idaho, Republican candidate for the presidential nomination, is running unopposed.

To Make Comparisons

In comparisons of the vote cast for the presidential candidates, observers hope to get some idea of the trend.

Pennsylvania, with its 35 electoral college votes, was one of the six states that went against the new deal in 1932. Its electorate voted 1,453,540 for Mr. Hoover and 1,295,948 for Mr. Roosevelt.

The vote in the mining areas was closely observed because John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and an organizer of "labor's non-partisan league," had pledged mine union support to President Roosevelt.

Fletcher Raps League

This new league, the other organizers of which were George L. Berry, president of the Printing Pressmen, and Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing workers, was the object of an attack today by Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee.

Fletcher called the league's formation "a political maneuver carried out at the expense of the nation's taxpayers."

Fletcher said Berry, the President's industrial coordinator, tours the country "on funds of the federal government."

There was activity also in the camps of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas and Col. Frank Knox of Chicago.

Missouri for Landon

Missouri Republicans, in a convention at St. Louis, last night voted a resolution pledging the state's four delegates-at-large to work for the Landon nomination. The pledging of these four gives the Kansas 20 instructed delegates from the state.

Knox was given the support of the Cook county (Chicago) convention which will have 58 delegates to the state convention at Peoria, May 22.

Massachusetts also was holding a presidential primary today. In both parties voters had an opportunity to express their presidential preference, though the result will not bind either the Democratic or Republican convention delegates.

POLICE WATCH ROADS FOR LIMA ROBBERS

by fire early today about 15 miles west of this city.

State police summoned by a farmer found the flaming ruins of the two cars. A can of oil can was found near one of the machines and officers said it was apparent both cars had been set afire.

Sergt. Jack O'Neill of the state police said one of the burned cars was found about 10 miles west of Indianapolis. The other car was found near Danville, Ind., about 20 miles west of where the other car was located.

Each car had two sets of license plates, several bullets were found in one of the machines.

Officers said one of the cars is believed to have been used by the band that committed the $15,000 robbery of a jewelry store at Lima, O., yesterday.

Rivers was shot down as he and two patrolmen started into a doctor's home to question the man who had gone there seeking medical aid for a wounded companion.

The gunmen opened fire through a screen door, raced to their automobile and backed for more than a block while keeping up a steady exchange of shots with the policemen. They whipped their automobile into a side street and then fled south.

State police blockades were thrown up on all highways leading from Indianapolis but the bandits escaped.

Indianapolis police were notified early in the evening by Dr. E. E. Rose that some men had been to his office with a companion who said he had been shot by the husband of a woman to whom he had been attentive.

They left but returned about 9 o'clock. While three of them tried to persuade the doctor to come out to the car, Mrs. Rose, the doctor's wife, ran to a nearby telephone and called police. When the officers arrived the gun fight started.

KING FUAD OF EGYPT CLAIMED BY DEATH

stability in Egypt, it is expected to have an adverse effect on British and Egyptian relations and may delay negotiations.

Although Ahmed Fuad had worn the title of Khedive of Egypt from 1917, he did not become king until March, 1922, when Great Britain relinquished its protectorate.

It was long years before problems of rule occupied him that he countered the first attack on his throat.

A brother-in-law, another Khedivial prince, fired a pistol at him in the fashionable Cairo Native club one night in the 1890's, and the bullet struck his throat.

His recovery was slow and imperfect, leaving a curious nervous reaction, half laugh and half cough, of the throat muscles.

Since the days of the Ptolemies 20 centuries ago, there had been no king of Egypt until a combination of strange and romantic circumstances arising out of the great war raised Ahmed Fuad, the youngest son of the former Khedive Ismail Pasha, from relative obscurity to occupy the famed throne of the ancient Pharoahs.

After its incorporation as a province of Imperial Rome, Egypt fell by conquest under the dominion of the sultans of Turkey and was administered for nearly 300 years by successive Turkish governors, until the mighty shadow of Napoleon Bonaparte fell across the pyramids. Britain, however, ousted the Corsican usurper and was instrumental in restoring the authority of the sublime porte.

The accession of the Albanian warrior, Mohammed Ali, to the pashalik of Eypt in 1805 brought great upheavals in its train. Mohammed repeatedly revolted against Turkish overlordship. He eventually succeeded in securing for himself the hereditary viceroyalty of the country, and Ahmed Fuad was the ninth of the line of the dynasty which the redoubtable Albanian chieftain founded.

PROJECTS INVOLVING OVER BILLION BACKED

Construction Recommended to National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 28—Prompt construction of 113 projects, involving an expenditure of $1,027,355,510, was recommended to the National Rivers and Harbors Congress today by its projects committee.

The committee, headed by Rep. Driver, Democrat of Arkansas, reported that the Florida ship canal was one of the projects that are "sound, needful, and sufficiently advanced in status, and should be promptly constructed in the public interest."

Other large projects recommended included improvement to the Cape Cod ship canal in Massachusetts, construction of the New Jersey ship canal, a system of 14 flood control reservoirs on the Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland river systems, and the Los Angeles county flood control project.

The committee decided that 38 projects were meritorious but did not specify immediate indorsement, recommended surveys for 58 others, and deferred action on 55.

At the same time, it urged that congress declare a national policy on flood control.

GOERING MADE BUSINESS BOSS

Shakeup Places Prussian Premier Above Schacht, Economic Minister.

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press)

BERLIN, April 28—Chancellor Adolf Hitler yesterday appointed Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering virtual dictator over all matters concerning raw materials and foreign currencies.

Goering also is Prussian premier and minister of aviation.

The official announcement of Goering's appointment declares that since matters concerning raw materials, foreign currencies and various departments of administration require Nazi party cooperation, Hitler decided upon the appointment.

Has Full Control

Goering is authorized to conduct hearings, give orders in all party and administration departments and to request cabinet ministers to support him or act as his deputies.

The appointment means apparently that Goering now is superior to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, economic minister and president of the reichsbank.

The new powers conferred upon Goering formerly were held by Schacht.

In some quarters it was believed that Schacht's position is strengthened rather than weakened by Goering's appointment to his new post without title.

It was pointed out that Hitler's action may be intended to check Nazi propaganda urging abandonment of Schacht's devisen (foreign exchange) policy. Thus, far form effecting Schacht's position adversely, it would protect it, although the Schacht mind henceforth would be announced through the mouth of Goering.

Many believed Goering's powers will go so far as to prevent Nazi propaganda against any financial measures the government desires to take. While apparently there are no plans to abandon rearmament or to reduce expenditures immediately the reich recently reduced allowances to the states.

The weekly Deutscher Volkswirt, which is close to Schacht, recently urged similar cuts in allowances to municipalities and other public bodies—possibly also meaning but not naming the Nazi party.

As the local administrative bodies which are likely to be affected by cuts are the strongholds of the Nazi party strong opposition against a policy of reduced expenditures is expected.

WOMEN VOTERS FOES OF TEACHERS' OATH

St. Louis Leader Claims Instructors Want Freedom From Political Pressure.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 28—As women voters from all parts of the nation set out today to make their ballots more telling in a broader field, Mrs. Roscoe Anderson of St. Louis urged defense of academic freedom against such efforts as demanding oaths of allegiance to the Constitution from school teachers.

The opening of the 12th national convention of the National League of Women Voters found Mrs. Anderson asserting "It is essential that the teachers be assured of their freedom to teach without political interference."

A spokesman for the league, discussing the broadened program, declared the organization aimed at no "petticoat government."

"The women's vote in this country is a powerful force," she said. "While women should and do seek political office, the aim of the league is to make their vote more effective and to bring organized pressure to bear on public opinion.

Dionnes Claim Quintuplets Not Getting Enough Food

By The Associated Press

CALLANDER, Ont., April 28—Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne said yesterday they believed their quintuplet daughters are not getting enough to eat and that their diet should be changed.

The parents, who visit the children twice daily in their private hospital, added that the five "don't say a word that can be understood" although "we have tried them in every manner."

Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, the babies' physician, said they got ample food, but that their weight was being kept down purposely, because babies not burdened with excess weight were better able to resist disease.

As for "restlessness" commented upon by Mrs. Dionne, the doctor said that was a direct result of their plentiful energy—an energy which had to be worked off.

Mr. and Mrs. Dionne have been at odds with the guardians of the quintuplets.

They indicated they believed the 23-months-old youngsters would thrive better if fed soup made from fresh meat, mashed potatoes with a sprinkling of meat gravy, cooked vegetables, particularly carrots, rice and all the milk they desire, instead of what the parents termed "greenish mush"—mashed fresh fruit and oatmeal.

Mrs. Dionne, who frequently presides at the noon feedings, said she found the children turn away from their main part of the meal, the "greenish mush," although it was flavored by adding a little mashed banana.

At this feeding, said the mother, there was "barely a third" of a small cup of milk for each child and "they drank it greedily."

Mrs. Dionne said the children do not sleep in the morning as well as they did and that they are more or less restless in the afternoon. She gave her opinion, concurred in by her husband, that this was because the children's hunger was not appeased.

"Are they being taught to dance?" the Dionnes were asked.

"We don't know," replied Mrs. Dionne, "but there are a number of things that can be taught before being shown how to dance."

Regarding the parents' statement that the children do not talk intelligently, Dr. Dafoe asserted they are beginning to build up a French vocabulary of their own, now confined to such words as "le docteur" and "au 'voir."

He added they are learing names of simple articles about the hospital and understand commands and instructions. By the example of their nurses who eat with them, he said, the quintuplets are taught table etiquet.

RATE PARLEYS AHEAD IF WATER PURCHASE LOSES

$8,226.59 for depreciation, or a total of $114,286.35. Deducting this from total income of $190,107.26 leaves what might be called net revenue of $75,820.91.

Dividing this by the company's book value of its property, less depreciation, indicates a 4.9 per cent rate of return. The net revenue would have to be increased from $76,820.91 to $92,064.75 to make the rate of return six per cent, on the basis of the company's own valuation of its property, less depreciation.

The commission, however, would not take the company's book valuations as a basis for computing the rate of return. Instead, it would assign engineers to make an appraisal of the plant to determine its value.

One question that has been raised in view of a prospective rate fight is whether the utilities commission would be inclined to take into consideration the unusual circumstances in Marion and fix a rate of return of less than six per cent.

This is regarded as a possibility by some city officials who, in discussing the rate situation in the last several months, have pointed out Marion's water rate is one of the highest in the state and have emphasized that the company lost most of its big water users by increasing rates in 1926 and stepping them up still further in 1928 when the softening plant was placed in operation. Several city officials have contended the company virtually "confiscated its own property" and wrecked its prospects of operating profitably at reasonable rates by driving away its large customers. They also pointed out that domestic users apparently have curtailed their use of water in an effort to keep their water bills at a minimum and will continue to cut down their use of water as long as rates remain at their present high level.

All in 10 Years

Marion's water rate problem is only 10 years old. It came when a 10-year rate contract was written in 1926, fixing a schedule of charges now in effect. It was estimated in 1926 that the increase over the cost of water prior to that time was 66⅔ per cent.

In that 10-year period, industrial revenue of the company has dropped from $40,121.95 to $5,835.66 and the consumption of water per capita dropped sharply.

The rate in effect during a 10-year period ended in 1924 provided a minimum bill of $10 a year and the first bracket of the domestic rate was 25 cents for 1,000 gallons or approximately 133 cubic feet. When the 1926 increase had been put into effect and an extra charge levied for softening in 1928, the rate stood at a minimum of $18 a year for domestic users and the first bracket of the domestic rate schedule fixed the cost of water at 45 cents a hundred cubic feet.

The sudden increase apparently created a condition in Marion in which the waterworks can not be operated profitably at reasonable rates. A number of waterworks experts interviewed by The Star expressed the opinion that nothing but a decided decrease will restore a healthy consumption of water and bring back industrial consumers to a point where reasonable rates will provide enough revenue for the plant to show a profit.

"If high rates caused the condition, it's probable that nothing but low rates will cure it," one expert said.

amount of the charge made by the pathologist. Hart said if there are objections to listing the names of physicians he would withdraw that part of his request.

Mayor Smith told Hart that Dr. LoCricchio, being city health commissioner, is required to make a monthly report to the city board of health.

At that point Dr. S. W. Matlox, a member of the health board who was in the audience, told council that he put through an ordinance a number of years ago requiring monthly reports of each city health function but that Dr. LoCricchio's report does not cover his pathology work.

"We ask for reports from the fire, police and all other city departments and I see no reason why we shouldn't have one from the newly created pathology department," Hart declared. "Mayor Smith, when the pathologist was hired, said he would get his business from communities outside of Marion and I feel that council should know the extent of such business," he added.

A proposal by Councilman Hayse Rogers that steps be taken to curb speeding on Bennett street was referred to the police committee for recommendation. Rogers said he was speaking for residents of Bennett street who have called the speeding to his attention because of the danger to school children of that section of the city. He suggested that signs be erected on the street warning motorists of school zones.

GROUP FORMED BY DEMOCRATS

Four Townships Organize Division of County Club at Caledonia Meeting.

The eastern division of the Marion county Democratic club, the second of four such groups to be formed in the county, was organized last night by Democrats of Richland, Claridon, Scott and Tully townships. The organization meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Oleta Keightlinger at Caledonia.

Division of townships in the county into districts is being done in connection with a membership drive to further the interests of the party and to give rural Democratic residents an opportunity to conduct community meetings.

A western division was formed April 14 composed of Montgomery, Big Island, Green Camp and Bowling Green townships. North and south districts will be formed within the next few weeks, H. T. Krebs president of the Marion county Democratic club, said. The northern district will include Grand, Salt Rock and Grand Prairie townships and the northern part of Marion township. The southern division will be composed of Prospect, Waldo and Pleasant townships and the southern part of Marion township.

Each of the district organizations will be host to a countywide Democratic rally in the months prior to the November election. The rallies will be held during the middle of the month. The western division will play host in June, the eastern division in July, the northern in September, and the southern in October.

Mrs. Oleta Keightlinger was elected president of the eastern division at last night's meeting. Other officers are Harold Beers of Scott township, vice president, and Mrs. Helen Thompson of Claridon township, secretary-treasurer.

J. B. Swain of Marion, chairman of the club's membership drive committee, was temporary chairman. Mr. Swain spoke on the ideals of democracy and outlined current achievements of the party. Mr. Krebs outlined the purpose of the new type of organization. He described the purpose of the district organizations as a move to take the Democratic meetings into the rural districts and give township residents the privilege of conducting their own meetings. The next meeting of the eastern district will be held May 15 at the home of Mrs. Keightlinger.

Eastern district committees appointed last night follow: Speakers, Harrison Kraner of Claridon township, chairman, Ralph Haines of Caledonia, Loren Weir of Scott township, Harley Rodock of Tully township, and John Mullins of Richland township; entertainment, Albert Ruth of Richland township, chairman, Mrs Margaret Burris of Scott township, E. L. Trout of Claridon township, and Mrs. Kehrer of Tully township; publicity, Mrs. Grace Von Kleeck of Claridon township, chairman, Edward Klingel of Richland township, Mrs. Bertha Ehlers of Caledonia, and Mrs. Gene Kennedy of Tully township; social, Darrel Mitchell of Scott township, chairman, Mrs. E. L. Trout of Claridon township, William J. Loyer of Richland township, and Gene Kennedy of Tully township.

DAVEY BLAMES PEN BLAZE ON THOMAS

Claims Gross Favoritism and Warden's Fear of Convicts Led to Disaster.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 28 — An echo of the Ohio penitentiary fire that took 320 lives on Easter Monday six years ago arose today in Gov. Martin L. Davey's assertion that the fire "may be charged to the former warden," Preston E. Thomas, "because of gross favoritism."

Davey, in his weekly radio talk last night, said of the former warden:

"He had practiced gross favoritism. Some prisoners were given extraordinary privileges. Many others were the object of his brutal system. Punishment was administered according to his personal likes and dislikes, and favors granted in the same way. He had his own spy system.

He did not dare go inside the prison walls and kept 12 guards to protect himself from bodily harm.

"So, with bitter hatred among the inmates toward the warden, with the guards completely untrained, and with no plan of action in case of emergency, and with the former warden afraid to go inside the prison walls, no one knew what to do when the fire started."

Thomas Ridicules Davey Charges

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 28—Preston E. Thomas, former Ohio penitentiary warden, today described as "the bellowing of a wounded animal" Gov. Martin L. Davey's assertion that the loss of 320 lives in the 1930 prison fire "may be charged to the former warden."

"That's just the bellowing of a wounded animal," Thomas retorted. "The governor made a mistake when he tried to remove me and hurt himself, and he's trying to justify it."

The former warden, who said he was exonerated by a former governor and state welfare director for the loss of life in the fire, added:

"The governor has become so accustomed to making misstatements that he can't stop. There is a very distinctive impediment to his veracity. He doesn't know the difference between favoritism and classification and segregation, not being a penologist. Therefore, he must be excused."

NEW YORK, April 28—Conflicting stories of a supposed midnight leap from the liner Georgic at sea April 20 baffled searchers today for the talented Mrs. Hazel Archibald Draper, mysteriously missing daughter-in-law of a former governor of Massachusetts.

The ship arrived in Cobh, Ireland, late last night, but did not report a drowning. New York police had coupled her disappearance with unverified reports from the Cunard-White Star liner of a woman's leap about 150 miles out from New York.

Mrs. Draper, 42, wife of a wealthy former state senator in Massachusetts, dropped from sight after leaving a Katonah, N. Y., sanitarium on April 19.

Police, seeking her at the request of her husband, Eben S. Draper of Hopedale, Mass., said they traced her to a midtown hotel here where a woman answering her description left a note saying she intended to stow away on a Europe-bound ship and commit suicide at sea.

The Stars Say--

For Wednesday, April 29—

A PARTICULARLY lively, enterprising and prosperous day in all departments of living is the presage based on important and benefic rule of major planets. There will be much advancement in big business, with friendly contacts and profitable associations with those in power, authority and social standing. Reactions from this will be felt in the purely private and social life, in which there may be much merriment and festivity, with romantic denouement. But there is a warning against a too impulsive or reckless plunging into any activities, business or private.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of great progress and prosperity, with a decided advance upon the goal of high ambitions. The cooperation and friendly interest of those in high places is assured and this will have a happy and festive reaction on the private life, which seems also to be over-shadowed by a definite tinge of romance. But shun extravagance, impetuosity, tumult and strife.

A child born on this day may be capable, enterprising, progressive and ambitious, attaining its high goals by contacts with those in power and by indomitable will. Notable nativity: William Randolph Hearst, publisher.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

Alfred E. Smith

By The Associated Press

Alfred E. Smith, the presidential choice of the Democrats in 1928, has given warning that the Democrats may not be his choice in 1936.

He made a campaign slogan at a Washington gathering of the American Liberty league when he said that Democrats who do not indorse the administration can, and probably will, "take a walk."

Before the campaign swings down the home-stretch, comes the convention at Philadelphia and Smith has been chosen a delegate from New York. It is expected that rebels within party ranks will rally to his standard, and that a blow-up, if one comes, will find Smith captaining one group.

What he will do after the convention is anyone's guess. There hangs the "take a walk" threat if he disapproves the convention's action. And Smith could be, if he wished, a valuable campaigner.

WARNING IS ISSUED AS RABIES SPREAD

Dr. N. Sifritt Points to Prevalence of Disease in Southern Ohio.

With a current announcement from the state health department that the prevalence of rabies in the southern part of Ohio is a serious public health problem Dr. N. Sifritt, county health commissioner, today urged Marion county persons to watch their dogs for any suspicious actions.

While we have no cases of rabies at the present time it is wise to guard against the spread of the apparent epidemic from the southern counties to this area, Dr. Sifritt said. If a dog's actions appear suspicious or odd to the owner he should lock him up and notify the county health department or Dog Warden Elmer Ullom so that the dog may be examined, the health commissioner explained. Warden Ullom has been instructed not to kill dogs suspected of rabies but to turn the case over to the health department.

The state health department is taking steps to eradicate the disease in Ohio by demanding that all counties experiencing cases of rabies place in operation regulations provided by state law to check the spread of the disease. The health department also calls on county officials to provide for the prompt elimination of stray and unlicensed dogs. The latter unquestionably constitutes the reservoir of the infection, and until this source is definitely removed from the field, no progress can be made, state health officials declare.

Attempts have been made in some of the counties affected to control the spread of this disease by quarantine regulations, canine vaccination, and possibly other methods not of proven value have been tried. In spite of such efforts, however, the infection is prevalent in counties near and bordering the Ohio river, the officials say.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

"Habit Tics."

MANY A MOTHER is unnecessarily alarmed about muscular twitchings or nervous movements of a child. These jerkings are medically known as "habit tics." In most instances they can be prevented if medical attention is obtained, particularly at the onset of the disturbance.

For years there has been an erroneous belief that many of these nervous twitches are due to some impairment of the brain. In reality, the disorder can be traced to some disturbance of the nervous system, or a reflex from some physical disability.

Habit tics are frequently observed in children between the ages of six and 12 years. No doubt you have seen these same purposeless movements in adults. In most instances the facial muscles are involved and the victim unconsciously winks an eye, or draws the mouth to one side. As a rule this habit is developed in early childhood and unless corrective measures are taken it may persist through adult life.

It is important to bear in mind that such nervous spasms must not be confused with the spasms that accompany certain constitutional diseases. For example, a child who is afflicted with St. Vitus dance is a victim of muscular spasms. These spasms differ from habit tics in that they are uncontrollable and rarely follow a definite habit pattern. That is, it may attack a leg at one time and the next time it may be in the face or neck. It is not always a movement of the same sort.

I venture to say that a goodly number of persons believe habit tic to be incurable. They point to some other member of the family who has the same habit and therefore conclude it must be an hereditary and an incurable affliction. This is not so.

The victim of a habit tic requires training and teaching of self-control. Of course, every source of irritation must be removed. It may be necessary to consult with a psychiatrist, to make sure the child is not obsessed with some fear of has some form of mental abnormality.

Every effort should be made to improve the general health. The child should be given an abundance of fresh air and sunshine. The diet should be varied and well-balanced, containing an abundance of fresh fruits, vegetables, milk, cereal, cream, butter and eggs. During the winter months or long continued cloudy weather, it is advisable to give cod liver oil to the child.

Adequate hours of rest and play are essential. The meals should be served at regular hours. There should be no distracting and exciting play during meal time and during the periods of relaxation. The very young child should be encouraged to take a daily afternoon nap.

I cannot overstate the importance of medical attention for the child who shows any tendency toward excessive nervousness. This may be a temporary condition, but if neglected it may lead to chronic nervousness in adult life.

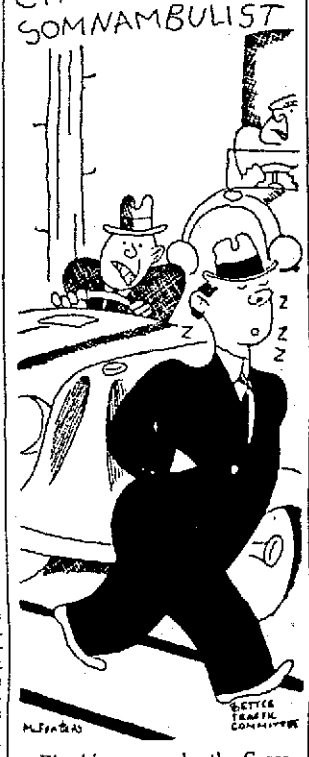
PUBLIC ENEMIES



Pity him as we do, the Cross-Walk Somnambulist has no one to blame but himself. Sleep-walking pedestrians gamble with death.

While it is true that pedestrians have the right-of-way over autos making turns at intersections and that traffic should slow down for persons using cross-walks, neither of these truths can afford much comfort after an accident has occurred.

For your own safety—be alert—look both ways before crossing the street!

—: The :— Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

CYNIC'S UNABRIDGED

Grindstone:— The stone which every wife sometimes suspects that she got in her engagement ring.

Modern Eve:—A girl who would have laughed at the Serpent—and offered him an apple.

Marriage:—A love-trust. Divorce:—The Investigation.

Profiteer:—A woman who asks fifty thousand dollars for the purloining of a man's love, when he never loved anybody but himself.

Super-optimist: — A man who thinks he can afford to marry just because he has saved up enough money to pay for the ring, the license and the honeymoon trip.

Old-fashioned Wedding:—A sacrament. A standardized marriage, in which the man does the courting, they are married in a church, the bride's father foots the bills, and they live happily—or somehow—forever after.

Modern Wedding:—A sacrifice. An impromptu elopement, followed by a "secret marriage," with two news reporters and a photographer as witnesses, a quick smash-up—and father's discovery that he will have to pay the damages.

Disposition:—that with which a man will have to go on living, after the girl he married for her sylph-like beauty has become a heavyweight. That with which a woman will have to go on living, after she has discovered that the tender way in which a man takes care of his car is no sample of the way in which he will treat his wife.

Benedict:—Formerly, a married man. Now, regarded by free-lancers merely as a potential grass-widower.

Pacifist:—A husband who will agree that he's wrong, when he's right.

Freak of Nature:—A husband who will agree that he's wrong, when he's wrong.

Spring Madness:—That delirium which causes a man to believe in his eternal love for one woman—after another.

COOKED CEREAL

May Be Started At Beginning of Fifth Month.

Cooked cereals may be started for breast-fed babies at the beginning of the fifth month. Oatmeal and other forms of cooked cereals may be given. The darker-colored cereals should be used frequently. Begin with one-half to one tablespoonful twice a day just before the 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. nursings and increase until by the seventh month the baby takes three or possibly four tablespoonfuls twice a day. The cereal should be cooked one to two hours. At first make it thin, but gradually thicken it to teach the baby to take semisolid foods.

MEASURING METHOD

Shortening may be measured accurately by the water method. If the recipe calls for one-third cup shortening, put one-third cup of water into a measuring cup, then add shortening until the water reaches the one cup mark. Drain off the water and use the shortening for the recipe.

TO KEEP FLOWERS FRESH.

Renew the water in your flower bowls daily and trim the stems. Cut stems at an angle. Remove all leaves beneath the water line. Salt and aspirin stop bacteria growth in water which is the foundation for the belief that they freshen the flowers.

VITAMIN A

Green leaves and yellow rooted vegetables are excellent sources of Vitamin A. This vitamin is known as the anti-infection vitamin and helps to build up body resistance to bacterial infections which enter the body through the mucous membrane.

Fruit Peelings.

The most valuable part of fruit lies just beneath the peeling and in the core. If fruits are pared use the peelings and cores with water and [illegible] for fruit

SYNOPSIS: Dirk Joris has witnessed the final scene between his older brother Rupert and Elinor Fleming—Elinor has broken her engagement to Rupert, because Rupert will not stop drinking. After taking Elinor home, Dirk has gone to a fete shown in Jersey, to wait for Elinor's cousin Isabel and her party. He has seen a charming horseback rider knocked down by a bully, and has in turn knocked down the bully. Now he is in the tent of Madame Chowdhury, fortune teller.

CHAPTER SIX

FREDDY and Isabel came in. Freddy carried an umbrella, and Isabel, all in yellow chiffon, looked like an indignant daffodil. Both glanced without enthusiasm about the shrine of Madame Chowdhury.

"Get it over, Natalie," said Isabel.

Madame had the somewhat blowsy appearance of a tipsy washwoman home from a costume ball, and a curious oily grace which seemed to annoy the colder and more matter of fact Isabel considerably.

"Waited long?" asked Freddy, a bland young man who was not himself when he was damp. Isabel asked for a cigaret and he supplied it. Dirk brought Madame Chowdhury's chair, and Isabel sat in it and smoked, her slim knees crossed, somnolence replacing the look of annoyance on her face.

She was like a portrait of Elinor, too youthful, too hardy to be an exact likeness. Darker, slate-colored eyes, more breadth of brow, less softness about the mouth. There was the same clear pallor, heightened by the yellow gown; the same ash-gold hair, the darker brows and lashes. Isabel at college had been accounted a prodigy at mathematics. Now she employed her faculties of deduction chiefly at bridge. Just Dirk's age, she was as weary of the world as Natalie was avid of it.

She said presently,

"Elinor told you the news, I suppose"

"The news?" repeated Dirk.

"Gaga Seymour," she assisted him.

"Oh, yes," Dirk said. "She told us."

"Rupert took it, I imagine, with customary tact."

"With customary tact," acknowledged Dirk.

The rain had begun again, was pounding on Madame Chowdhury's roof, oozing through the seams. Freddy said to Isabel,

"For two cents I won't pick up Joe. Why can't he get his own car?"

"I won't give you two cents," said Isabel. "What's a little rain?"

Dirk went to the back door of the tent and looked out. Dark as pitch now except for the beam of light from Madame Chowdhury's lamp. By that ray he saw that the man no longer lay in the mud. Silence, except somewhere an animal snarling in its cage. Suddenly there was the faint sound of applause and two swift human figures came running from the main tent—acrobats they looked like, or the trapezists whom he had watched perform. They disappeared into another tent, vanishing abruptly out of the ruin.

Simultaneously Natalie came from the inner sanctum with Madame Chowdhury. Isabel and Freddy made ready to depart.

The appearance of the white running figures had reassured Dirk. They had run lightly, were nimble and muscled. They were trapezists, or they would not be trapezists. "Pipolo fights for her," Madame had said. And the doors of the van were locked. She was safe tonight.

Tomorrow he would come back. He must see her again.

Natalie was bubbling delightedly. She had done a good deal of talking had babbled lengthily at any stray query from Madame, but she had been apprised also of many romantic events to come.

It was decided that they would stop for Joe Vincent, a bachelor, sojourning alone in his summer cabin not so far away. Joe, said Freddy, had better give them something to warm them up.

"Can he give me a dry pair of slippers?" asked Natalie.

"I shouldn't wonder," said Freddy not without malice.

As a matter of fact he did—little gold ones, smelling of Amour-Amour, and almost a perfect fit.

An agreeable host, Joe seemed to Natalie decidedly virile an desirable, in spite of the fact that he had been spending his summer in the woods painting pictures. He showed them some of his work. Not bad, they told him. Lately the rain had spoiled things, and next week he had to go back to town, and be a broker again.

"A broker," thought Natalie. "That's better."

They sat around Joe's log-fire till it burned low, then they fared on to Englewood where they danced until 1 o'clock, when Dirk and Isabel departed, leaving Natalie with the other two. Natalie would last till morning.

"It must be wonderful to be as young as that," Isabel said as they rode home. "I never was. But you, Dirk—you're young, too. Not in the way Natalie is. In your own way."

Joe showed them his work.

"What way is that?" asked Dirk.

"Oh, you believe in people. And in things, too. Bedtime stories and—I wonder you didn't have your fortune told tonight."

They were passing Lowrie Wood, its forests and wrought-iron gates, its turrets and gables and shadowy stone tower. Above it an old moon hung, caught on the cone of a turret like a spent balloon. The sky was clear. The gypsy weather was gone. Decent faring now for any traveler.

Dirk drove more slowly, thinking he saw some one standing in the open gates of Lowrie. By the old moon's light the figure seemed that of a woman. Probably one of the maids, he decided, coming home at this hour, though what maid it might be in that body of ancient retainers, he could not imagine.

The figure was moving now, moving with the lightness of a ghost or a shadow. It disappeared.

"Did you see that?" Dirk said to Isabel.

"See what?" she asked.

He told himself that he had seen nothing.

Rupert finds, tomorrow, that the mysterious figure is a person of great possibilities.

A Strange Monopoly.

Many intelligent radical leaders, such as Norman Thomas, Kirby Page and Earl Browder, have been quick to seize upon continuance of war in civilization as a weapon with which to bolster their attacks upon capitalism. Adroitly they have selected economic forces which play their part in producing international strife, such as the search for raw materials, and have played up those factors in a manner calculated to give the impression that international calamities will continue as long as the present economic order exists and perpetuates a blind spirit of nationalism. Undoubtedly these peace advocates oversimplify the complex issues involved, but it cannot be gainsaid that they have caused thousands of persons to identify the peace movement with their own questionable economic doctrines.

It is encouraging, therefore, to feel that this strange monopoly may soon be broken. Last week saw the launching of a nation-wide drive by Emergency Peace Campaign, followed by student demonstrations over the country—all promising to lead to a comprehensive program of education and political action.

Peace advocates will welcome the aid of Mr. Thomas' eloquence, but it is reassuring to know they will hear from other speakers who are not peddling economic panaceas. Mr. Thomas cannot be blamed for using every opportunity to boost his own product, but peace-minded persons should remember there is a chance of gaining health without buying his particular brand of pills.

One Every Minute.

As with unemployment figures, no reliable statistics have been compiled which would reveal birth and death rates of utopian societies since the onset of the depression.

Communists and socialists loyally if ineffectually have ridden up and down the economic toboggan for many years, so they should be accorded places of honor on utopian rolls—but after them, who should come next?

Future historians of this crazy era are entitled to have adequate evidence of these spectacular instances of political psychoses, but nothing has been done in statistically minded Washington to make the record. When the stock ticker began to race ahead of the traders in the fall of 1929, it was as though the political soil were simultaneously made alluvial. Instead of yielding two or three crops a year, as brain trusters have tried to make some arid land do, this rich political earth disgorged monthly, weekly, almost daily crops of new movements to save America from itself—and sometimes Wall Street. If historians are to paint this era of humor and pathos in its infinite variety of shades and tones, they must have the "vital statistics."

Announcement of the blossoming of American Nationalists Inc., in New York, emphasizes the need for such records. This latest utopian seedling appears to have its philosophic roots in Hitlerian soil so may not flourish long in America, but its coming and going should be recorded. It will have to be admitted that a census of such salvation societies would be outdated within less than a week, but newspapers might be persuaded to run a daily box score. No hits, no runs, but scores of errors.

Thanks to the Ladies.

Recent bombardments upon the senate lobby committee have been followed up by a cannonading from the ladies.

Operating under the title of Women Investors in America Inc., a group of women seeks to give "educational and protective instruction in the fundamentals of finance and investment" to feminine investors. According to Miss Catherine Curtis, president, no official member of the corporation receives a salary, no contributions have been made with any strings attached and no members have indulged in the now unrighteous practice of lobbying. But Sen. Black and his snooping brigade could not be disarmed so easily. Possibly some of the ladies had been seen within lobbying distance of the capitol. In any event, the organization was commanded by the committee to turn over its records.

But bold Miss Curtis and her aids refused to do so. Strangely, they believed in the strength of their constitutional rights to resist this infraction of the fourth amendment. Sen. Black talked vaguely of serving an "instanter subpena" under which he could take possession of the records, but he didn't follow through when invited to do so.

Increasingly, victims of the Black inquisitors have shown a disposition to realize and fight for their constitutional rights. Since government appears to be more willing to aid publicity seeking senators to put on a good show than to protect the rights of individuals, it is heartening to realize that Americans are fighting back. The ladies are to be congratulated upon not being intimidated by a mere man.

What's the Hurry?

Unless the unexpected happens, the tax bill now pending in congress is going to be pushed rapidly along to enactment, and there is no sign of the unexpected happening. That does not prevent a great many persons from believing, however, that a grave mistake is being made.

Two objections stand out above all others. The ability of the measure to produce more revenue is questionable. It is primarily a tax reform, possibly submitted at this time for reasons having more to do with the Roosevelt program than with the more important objective of increasing the federal income.

The second objection is related to the first. Administration leaders themselves admit it will be necessary to bring up another tax bill in the next session of congress. Since it is painfully obvious that the current bill, framed in an atmosphere of hasty and election year tension, is far from meeting requirements for a sound piece of legislation, it would seem wise to hold it over for more careful consideration.

The government, aside from considerations of reform, has nothing to lose by proceeding deliberately. Yet, there is convincing evidence that administration leaders in both houses intend to pursue the hustle and bustle method which already has given the Roosevelt administration so many slipshod legislative products. No one yet has answered, or even attempted to answer the most direct question prompted by the pending tax bill: What's the hurry?

Finley Peter Dunne.

It was a surprise to many members of the generation which reached maturity during and after the World war to read in Saturday's newspapers that Finley Peter Dunne had died. The name itself meant little to them, but most of them had heard at one time or another of "Mr. Dooley" and his pithy remarks back in the days of the first Roosevelt.

Indeed, some members of Mr. Dunne's own generation were surprised at news of his death. Because "Mr. Dooley" had ceased to make his witty remarks on things in general, they imagined that the keen sense of humor behind that clever commentator no longer existed. But Mr. Dunne has been living all these years—living in voluntary retirement and watching the parade go by without comment.

Mr. Dunne may be likened with mutual credit to the late Will Rogers. Each filled in his time an acute need for a commentator capable of sprinkling the salt of skepticism and pouring on the vinegar of humorous ridicule. Each was a master of idiom, Mr. Dunne of Americanized Irish, Mr. Rogers of the plain talk of the western plains. Together, they helped their countrymen during more than a third of a century to understand that chuckling is good mental exercise.

Of the two, Mr. Dunne, perhaps, has the better chance to live on in frequent quotations. There already are signs, however, that Mr. Rogers is beginning to be even more valued than he was during the years when his daily column was watched for each day by millions of readers more interested in his comments than in the subjects which excited his interest. Such speculation invariably leads to the conclusion that what this country needs is another good humorist, with a flair for satire and ridicule. Wouldn't "Mr. Dooley" have had fun with the second Roosevelt had he chosen to indulge himself?

President At Odds With Economists

Disagrees With Brookings Report, Regarded as Expert Discussion, on Value of Lowering Cost of Production.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, April 28 — President Roosevelt wrote his New York speech alone. It is reported that he had no help. In that speech he outlined his "economic and social philosophy." The address, therefore, affords a better opportunity to examine the quality of Mr. Roosevelt's own argument than those presidential speeches the authorship of which is proudly claimed in whole or in part by various members of the "brain trust."

Mr. Roosevelt frankly says: "I am not a professional economist but I think I know." He then proceeds to give as the principal cause of the depression the fact of "group selfishness." Later on he gives his objections "to lower prices by cheapening the costs of production."

The President apparently was not reminded by anyone at his side when he finished writing his speech that the latter doctrine he expressed was diametrically opposite to the findings of a distinguished and disinterested group of professional economists in the inquiry and report made by the Brookings Institution of Washington in recent months.

The Brookings report will go down in economic history as the greatest piece of economic writing since the days of Adam Smith 160 years ago. It has been widely acclaimed because it is the most sensible analysis of our present economic ills that has been made. New dealers have quoted from it approvingly and forward-looking business men have conceded the truth of the solutions which the Brookings report has proposed.

To understand the conflict between Mr. Roosevelt's comments and the Brookings survey, it is first necessary to quote what the President said:

"You can cheapen the costs of industrial production by two methods. One is by the development of new machinery and new technique and by increasing employe efficiency. We do not discourage that. But we do not dodge the fact that this means fewer men employed and more men unemployed.

"The other way to reduce the costs of industrial production is to establish longer hours for the same pay or to reduce the pay for the same number of hours. If you lengthen hours, you will need fewer workers. More men will be out of work. If you choose lower wages for the same number of hours, you cut the dollars in the pay envelope and automatically cut down the purchasing power of the worker himself.

"Reduction of costs of manufacture does not mean more purchasing power and more goods consumed. It means just the opposite.

"The history of the 1929 to 1933 period shows that consumption of goods actually declines with a declining price level. The reason is that in such periods the buying power goes down faster than the prices. If you increase buying power, prices will go up; but more goods will be bought. Wages ought to and must go up with prices."

Now let us read what the Brookings report says:

"The price reduction method of distributing income has an outstanding advantage over other methods in that the benefits are extended automatically to the entire population. An increase in money wages, with prices remaining stationary, will enlarge the buying power of the wage-earning group; but it will not directly improve the position of the equally important portions of the population which do not work for wages. Similarly, profit sharing may bring higher standards of living to that particular section of the population which is in a position to share the profits; but it will be of no direct value to the agricultural population or to persons whose incomes are derived from salaries. But a reduction of prices gives to every purchaser a larger return for his money."

What happens often is that salaried workers, like school teachers and "white collar" workers generally, to say nothing of the rural population, must pay the increased costs of advancing industrial wages and they get no benefit in return in the form of increased wages for themselves. For it is a well established fact that their income is only slowly increased and meantime their real wages go down because they cannot buy as much of the higher priced articles.

The Brookings report emphasizes that the 54,000,000 persons who live on farms cannot be ignored and that they would be if the money-wage method were followed and then points out that a population of about 20,000,000, comprising the professional group, domestic and personal servants, employes in state and city and federal service, small shop-keepers and tradesmen "fall outside the wage system." The report, which by the way is entitled "Income and progress," then adds significantly:

"The wage increase method of disseminating the benefits of technological progress would, therefore, not extend to more than 40 per cent of the population. In contrast, again, price reductions benefit the entire population."

Now it so happens that the Brookings report is just as much opposed as is Mr. Roosevelt to reduction in costs by reducing wages because it frankly says this only reduces the aggregate buying power. On the other hand, it sounds a warning against "group selfishness" in the form of arbitrary advances in wages by organizations which insist on higher wages irrespective of whether the rest of the population can afford to buy the higher priced products.

Mr. Roosevelt's point that buying power goes up with increased wages and prices is contradicted by what happened to the consumption of bread. It went down as processing taxes were added to the cost and as wage costs were increased.

Wages should advance, of course, but not more rapidly than the consumer can absorb the new cost. Buying power increases as more goods are sold, which, in turn, give employment to more people. The best illustration of the Brookings theory of economics that can be given is one that actually is working today, namely in the automobile industry. The price of the automobile is lower than it ever was in the heyday of American prosperity. And better automobiles are now available at lower prices than ever before. Each year since 1928 the automobile industry has increased its sales and its employment. As a consequence of the efficiency of the auto industry, the people who used to pay $1,800 for a car now get as good a vehicle for $800 and have $700

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 28 — The new deal is developing some smart new inside tricks in its political defense program.

The press agent system, for one thing, is being secretly decentralized. The exploitation organization here is being used less and less for heavy work. More and more dependence (and money) is being placed in the various state and district promotion agencies out in the country. This keeps the big propaganda activities far, far away from the central collection of critics and political observers in Washington.

No one is supposed to know about it, but Harry Hopkins worked out just such a scheme at a confidential gathering of his district publicity purveyors here about two weeks ago. He did it so well that no outsider has yet discovered that there was a meeting.

His boys planned a WPA good will campaign to be conducted locally in each district through the radio and the newspapers, particularly the smaller ones, including the weeklies. They have already started to work.

Extras

Details are hard to get, but a certain WPA publicity agent in one midwestern state is known to have had his allowance increased to $3,000 per month. He can get a lot of extra good will in his state for the extra $3,000 a month, because his field is not very large or important. Other increases were granted in other states, presumably on a commensurate scale.

Headquarters here will probably do little except pull the wires on the inside and keep quiet.

The idea is to keep Mr. Hopkins a jump ahead of his opposition in congress, the Liberty League, the Republican national committee and others who have their spy glasses trained on Washington but cannot keep track of the nation's outlying precincts.

Necessity

Mr. Hopkins' stealthily exploitation venture was mothered by necessity.

For some time it has been evident that not only his, but the other, press agencies here have not been getting results. For one thing they are too obvious. Whenever they issue a statement or make a move, there are 500 newsmen and 500 more anti-new deal press agents, lobbyists and opposition congressmen ready to pounce on it. These oppositions not only expose, but sometimes deliberately misinterpret and exaggerate, so that even a routine detail sometimes becomes an ogre. This central publicity exploitation has become a new deal liability in some ways rather than an asset.

But out in the country it will be different. The local press agents will be able to get away with murder, or mayhem at least, and run little risk of getting caught. If they do, it will be their own responsibility.

The WPA stride matches similar progress toward decentralization in FHA recently. Instead of issuing a statement from its headquarters here, FHA sent identical letters to its district housing administrators out through the country, had each administrator sign the letter as his own and send it to newspapers.

Cause

The hidden explanation for many an international development may be found in the list of international loans. For example, British banks and investors hold approximately $210,000,000 in long-term German credit and around $250,000,00 in short-term credits. Italy, on the other hand, owes only around $10,000,000. Foreign offices take these practical matters into consideration in choosing their friends.

Restless

Bad news has been seeping out of Vienna. It has not yet reached the publication stage, but wise diplomatic authorities here would not be surprised to hear a new uprising before the end of the summer.

Evidence is accumulating that the Nazi element is getting out of hand—even Hitler's hand apparently. They say der furore does not want the coup just yet for fear it will spoil Britain's friendship. But Austrian Nazis, encouraged by the ease with which Hitler seized the Rhineland, are becoming impatient.

The Austrian government is supposed to have curtailed munitions for its own troops lately for fear that some of the bullets may shortly be fired against it.

Fuse?

There is a wise old bird in the tallest tree on the Capitol grounds who will tell you that Gov. Ely, the Massachusetts Democratic pal of Al Smith, is considering coming out for Senator Borah. Other similar breaks among conservative Democrats are being talked of, any of which might place a slightly different color on the existing political situation.

Relativity

President Roosevelt criticized columnists and interpretative writers in his confidential talk with newspaper editors not long ago, saying that it was humanly impossible for any columnist to write a good column out of Washington every day. He was 100 per cent right about that, but he neglected to add that it is humanly impossible for anyone to be a good editor every day—or a good President.

The Word of God

WOE TO TRYANTS: Woe unto them that decree unrighteousness decrees, and that write grievousness which they have prescribed; to turn aside the needy from judgment, and to take away the right from the poor of my people, that widows may be their prey, and that they may rob the fatherless! —Isaiah 10:1, 2.

"I'm sure your soup is hot enough, sir!"

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, April 28 — Few masculine figures on New York streets turn heads so surely as General John J. Pershing. Even before he is recognized, his erectness and superb carriage single him for attention. At 76, he has the stride of a competent young athlete.

Gen. Pershing, like most thinkers, is one of the leisurely window shoppers, a vast army that includes Charles M. Schwab, Dr. John H. Finley Max Steur and Albert Einstein. When in New York, the General usually visits his club on Park avenue in the late afternoon.

One of his pet stories concerns an inspection tour of forts he made after the war. At Fort Sam Houston, he was out for a sundown stroll when he accosted two soldiers for a match for his cigar. They supplied him and walked on with marked indifference.

After a few steps they saw a Great Light. Only two days in the army they had run sprang into the big boss and had not saluted. They circled, timidly approached and apologized abjectly. "That's all right, boys," said Gen. Pershing, "but don't ever try that on a 2nd lieutenant."

Arthur J. Burks, pontiff of the pulps, was recently permitted to sit in the electric chair at Sing Sing so he might turn out a gasper for a magazine. Before he sat down, a prison guard advised him not to be so jocular about his adventure. He explained that Police lieutenant Becker once on a social visit flopped down in the "hot spot" with a joke. Just a year later his sentence of death was executed in the same chair. Burke unfunnied himself pronto.

New York has many odd breakfasters. The late Edmund Breese liked plain lettuce and cup of orange juice. Lucius Beebe has one graham cracker, hot tea and two one-minute eggs spiked with Worcestershire and tobasco. Deac Aylesworth is partial to a baked apple with a nubbin of tarty cheese. Strangler Lewis likes a steaming onion soup. But the wallopingest breakfast of all is indulged in once or twice a week by that sturdy trencherman, Bob Davis. He orders a stack of wheats, bacon and soft boiled eggs, fried potatoes and coffee. He breaks the eggs over the hot cakes, crumbles the crisp bacon on top, decorates it all with French friends and smears the whole mess with splashes of maple syrup. Awk!

About the most successful post-repeal night club impresario continues to be Sherman Billingsly, a soft spoken fellow who might be the proprietor of the leading furniture store in Enid, Okla., where he was born. His intake is said to be near a million a year and in a revealing article in a stage magazine admits that his $8,000 a year rental is usually covered by a $12,500 a year hat checking concession. He declares most night clubs are short lived because of the commission racket of provision dealers. Unless this is scotched it is impossible to survive. Another bankruptcy leak is theft by both customers and employes.

Watch Steiwe

G. O. P. Keynoter Looms Possible "Dark Horse."

BY BYRON PRICE

Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

Big-time politics seems to [illegible] sons why Sen. Steiwer's [illegible] tion as Republican keynoter [illegible] Cleveland must be clear [illegible] something more than routine [illegible] litical news.

One is the fact that the [illegible] conservative leaders who [illegible] trolled the selection have [illegible] this recognition to a far [illegible] who made his reputation as a [illegible] eral, and who has voted in the [illegible] ate for several of the [illegible] policies of the New Deal.

The other is the circumstance that Sen. Steiwer is spoken [illegible] backstage as a possible presidential nominee, in case of a deadlock, and the keynote job puts him in the best possible spot to exploit whatever abilities he has to [illegible] delegates.

Ordinarily there is no great interest in keynoters. It is customary to submit the keynote address to all party factions in advance and edit it until it gives offense to none.

The Democratic selection of a keynoter for Philadelphia has been largely a matter of form, as everybody knows what the speech will be about. It is different in Cleveland.

Want Western Vote

Whatever editing Sen. Steiwer's remarks may undergo, their basic form hardly can be expected to express that ultra-conservative condemnation of the entire Roosevelt regime which many easterners would like to hear.

Such a speech, coming from a particular senator, would be entirely too vulnerable when [illegible] alongside his record. Even if Senator Steiwer consented to such [illegible] himself, wise party managers never would take such a risk at the moment. The inescapable logic that he was chosen, instead, because he could and would make a direct appeal to western liberal sentiment.

There was a time when no such concession was expected, when it appeared that the Republican high command was preparing to run straight down the line of conservatism, and let the western wing of the party take the program or leave it. What caused the change?

Echo answers, but the procession of events sometimes is significant. Certainly it is possible that the hundreds of thousands of Republican votes cast in recent primaries for William E. Borah have made themselves heard by the wise eastern politicians whose ardent desire is, after all, to win the election.

Leaders Like Steiwer

The situation regarding Senator Steiwer's presidential prospects, while still nebulous, is somewhat further advanced than the public has been told.

Several weeks ago he made a little-advertised speech in New York. Among his hearers were several important eastern leaders who liked his looks. Thereafter he was trotted out as keynoter at a number of Republican state conventions. There is no question now that he has influential friends who believe he might be the right answer to a deadlock.

Beyond that the idea seems very likely to go until convention time—if ever. Some of Sen. Steiwer's intimate say he has no desire or bid for the nomination. Yet it is hard to tell what a deadlocked convention might do.

And after 1936 comes 1940. Again there may be no true astrology of events, but most politicians are convinced that it was the honorable impression made by Warren Harding as the 1916 keynoter which nominated him in 1920 that put him in the White House.

Any way you look at it, the reelection of Sen. Steiwer is interesting.

Knox Statement

One pre-convention statement Col. Frank Knox, who seeks the Republican presidential nomination, is receiving a good deal of attention from politicians and political analysts.

Mr. Knox has asserted that among convention delegates thus far selected, he will command a greater third or fourth ballot strength than Gov. Landon.

"Don't ask me where my delegates are, for I won't tell you," the candidate said.

Knox is confident he will have at least 130 votes after the convention really gets down to the serious business of choosing a nominee. But that is true his opponents for the nomination would give a lot to know in just what part or parts of the country this support lies.

There have been suggestions that some quarters that a large part of it lies south of the Mason-Dixon line. Those who remember the part the south played in helping former President Hoover secure the nomination at Kansas City in 1928 realize fully what an all-out similar support of any candidate in 1936 can be.

SWINONIA

Lima, the seat of government of Allen county, got its name, it is said, from a man who had influence in the selection of the name, and who was impressed with the name of the capital of Peru, in South America. It was pure fancy. But the young county seat was lucky that it did not have a worse one given it.

Lima is located on a rather sluggish and winding little stream that bears the name of Ottawa. The Indians had given this name to the river, but about the time of the coming of the whites to this section, they changed the name to Koshkosepe, which means, in the Indian language, "Hog River."

CITY SPECIAL LEVY CAMPAIGN STARTED

Out of the amount certified, however, the county auditor will deduct $21,533, representing the cost of elections, industrial commission premiums, rent relief, paving assessments and liquidation of claims leaving $200,607.24 from which the city must meet all expenses this year.

To show the problem facing city officials in making this amount cover all expenses, Mr. Snare referred to a set of figures which covered in detail the city's present financial problem.

The city's 1935 contractural obligations, which cannot be reduced without elimination of some municipal service, amount to $142,223.52. These items include street lights, fire hydrant rentals, upkeep of lands and buildings, rent for the city hall, insurance, the City hospital and the garbage department. The hospital and garbage department are included in the list, he explained, because their earnings are included in the city's estimated income for the year.

Early in January, Mr. Snare pointed out, council made appropriations for one month amounting to $28,504.53. Taking this from the $200,607.24 the city expects to receive there is left $172,102.71 for the remaining 11 months. Of the January appropriation $12,371.48 was for items included in the contractural obligations, thereby reducing the amount needed for these purposes for the last 11 months to $129,852.05.

Lacked Funds for Salaries

It was at this point in mapping the 1936 financial program that officials met their greatest obstacle, Mr. Snare told the club members. With $172,102.71 to meet all expenses for 12 months and $129,852.05 obligated to go for contractual expenses, officials found they had $42,250.66 left to pay salaries which amount to $120,805.83.

The salary deficit therefore was $78,555.17. Attempting to pay all city employes and officials with this amount of money would entail a pay cut of 65 per cent, Mr. Snare said. But by abolishing the firemen's and police pensions, laying off four policemen, and appropriating fire hydrant and street light bills for six months, officials found that they could save sufficient money to reduce the pay cut to 45 per cent. This was the basis on which salary appropriations were made for the last 11 months of the year.

In the closing phase of his talk Mr. Snare outlined the purposes for which officials propose to use the funds from the levy.

In the first place, he said, the levy is estimated to raise $88,000 a year for two years, or a total of $176,000.

How Money Would Be Used

With the levy officials expect to wipe out $81,000 in bills carried over from last year, provide $31,778 for the remainder of street light and fire hydrant needs for this year, raise salaries from a 45 per cent cut to an 85 per cent cut for which $33,848 will be needed this year and $35,315 next year.

The increase in the needs for salaries is due to the fact that four men will be off the regular police payroll five months this year but if the levy passes will be returned June 1 and will be on the payroll all of next year.

The $81,000 in last year's bills are to be paid over a two-year period, thereby reducing by half the amount needed for this purpose the first year of the levy.

While these figures total more than the amount that will be available from the levy, several creditors of the city, including the water and light company, have promised substantial reductions which will bring the amount needed well within the revenue.

The rebates on outstanding bills also will leave $9,000 which officials propose to use for a number of WPA projects. The projects are estimated to give at least four months work to 300 men.

In selecting the projects, Mr. Snare said council chose work which the members felt would have to be done within the next few years anyway. Now, he said, is a good time to do the work as the only expense to the city will be for materials, the federal government paying all labor costs.

WPA Projects Listed

Mr. Snare listed the projects as follows:

(1) Reconstruction of a filter bed and filling it with stone at the sewage disposal plant, (2) enlargement of an East Center and Church street storm water sewer system, (3) widening of South Prospect street from Church to Hill, (4) cutting back approximately 100 street corners, (5) cleaning a ditch in the northeast section of the city to provide better drainage for that area, (6) completion of the repair of a number of brick streets now in progress. The streets in the last project are South State from Center to Church, East Center street and Cherry street.

In closing Mr. Snare said he felt council would be guided in its future financial program by the verdict of the people at the polls primary day.

"We have tried to maintain all municipal services," he said, "and we will consider a favorable vote on the levy as approval of our program. However, if the levy fails we can take it only as indication that the people of Marion would rather have their services drastically curtailed than pay the additional taxes necessary to maintain them."

Two other talks featured the Service club program.

C. K. Coleman of the research department of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., of Akron, gave a movie-lecture explaining the manufacture of products made by his company. Mr. Coleman was the guest of R. W. Anderson, office manager of the Goodyear Service station at Church and State streets.

A safety talk illustrated with a series of charts was presented by Rev. J. M. Fisher. Twenty-five members of the club were present for the meeting which was presided over by Lewis Ashworth. W. A. Greenberg of Milwaukee was a guest.

additional to spend on other things. Whatever those "other things" may be, from clothing to radios, the demand for them increases as an individual is able to buy more of them because the savings or benefits obtained on one article are applied to the purchase of another. The principle of the Brookings philosophy is not higher prices, as Mr. Roosevelt has advocated right along, but lower prices. In other words, the slogan really is "more for your dollar."

In this way real values are actually increased. For money wages are illusory if the costs of what you buy go up so that your pay envelope doesn't buy what it did before. It goes without saying, too, that, while lengthening hours unduly or cutting the rate per hour are to be condemned, the horizontal and arbitrary policies evolved under the NRA left business and industry in such demoralized shape that some adjustments had to be made to fit products into the proper price position at which they could move to market. Volume of production has risen ever since.

With improving conditions, moreover, due to removal of some of these restrictions upon exchange of goods, especially since the supreme court invalidated the uneconomic as well as unconstitutional laws that were hampering progress, wages have not been reduced but have been advancing slowly in many lines and indeed rapidly in others. Efficiency in production and distribution has increased the demand for goods and services generally.

Further intervention by the government to give one group an advantage over the other may, in a political campaign year, catch some votes, but inevitably it must lose others.

Also an unequal distribution of the tax burden may force the selling price of articles up more rapidly than the wage-earning public can absorb them at the higher prices. Mr. Roosevelt may then find consumption halted at present levels or even reduced if the prices at which goods have to be sold in the future in order to pay the heavy taxes should result in consumer resistance.

The constructive alternative, of course, is to reduce taxes by eliminating waste, to reopen domestic and world market by removing governmental restrictions, to increase the volume of goods produced and sold by encouraging greater efficiency and lower prices and to create new industries and revive old ones by eliminating government interference with the proper flow of ... FIRST YEAR FEEDING DETERMINES HEALTH

Physician Should Guide Food Selection for Baby; Expert Advice Valuable.

The way the baby is fed during the first year of life may make him either strong and healthy or weak and sickly; wrong feeding may even be the cause of his death. For this reason a physician experienced in the care and feeding of infants should be consulted as soon as the baby is born and at regular intervals thereafter, at least once a month if the baby is breast fed and more frequently if he is artificially fed. He will advise the mother with regard to all the details of feeding. For the sake of the baby's health the doctor's advice should be followed with the greatest care.

The baby should learn soon after birth to take food at regular hours by the clock and to be satisfied when fed only at these times.

If the mother invariably gives the baby his feeding at the times decided on and if she is invariably firm in requiring him to wait until the hour for feeding arrives, the average baby can be trained very early in life to wake regularly for food and to sleep quietly most of the time between feedings.

WENDEL SUSPECT CAUGHT IN OHIO

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 28—District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan announced today the arrest of Harry Weiss, one of the five men indicted in the Wendel kidnaping case, in a small town in Ohio.

Geoghan said Weiss was being brought to New York and would reach here tonight.

Weiss, charged with four others with the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel whose republished confession brought a stay in the execution of Bruno Hauptmann, was traveling toward New York when he was arrested in a town "about 80 miles from Cleveland."

The district attorney said he did not know the name of the town.

For rent—
ONE CLOSET
suitable for skeletons

It's the one where you used to keep your family skeletons. Not the kind referred to as "Uncle Will's unfortunate weakness." The kind that haunted you with reminders of unfortunate purchases....

Appliances bought on snap judgment. Gadgets that didn't run. Dresses you snatched at the last moment—and never wore after the first. All things that cost too much and gave too little. Merchandise from questionable sources—hastily, inconsiderately secured.

You have fewer of these sad mistakes to put away than you used to. You are spending your money more carefully nowadays. Hard times—experience—have contributed their lessons. But above all others, one factor has stood your constant guard.

The advertising in this newspaper protects you against wasteful, unsatisfactory expenditures. Advertised products live up to their specifications—and yours.

By reading the advertising — not sometimes but ALWAYS—carefully and critically—you provide yourself with a knowledge of values, prices and names that's yours when you need it. Dispense with that upstairs closet. Buy by name in 1936. You'll collect no buying blunders THAT way!

Indians Win from St. Louis, 2-1, On Campbell's Homer

CLEVELAND MAKING IMPRESSIVE SHOWING, WINNING 8 OUT OF 11

Cincinnati Reds Nose Out Cubs, 5 to 4, in 10-Inning Game.

American League managers are scanning the record of the Cleveland Indians these days and finding therein little solace for the road that lies ahead.

The Indians currently are leading the pack with eight wins in 11 starts this season; however, it isn't the number of victories but the way they scored them that impresses the old hands of baseball campaigning.

Steve O'Neill, of the square jaw and steady eye, has moulded a cohesive band of ball players who will fight you down the line until the last ball has been pitched and the last blow struck. The Indians have been thumping the horsehide with vigor and their pitching gets better as the season moves along.

Here's Hurling Talent.

Mel Harder, Oral Hildebrand, Johnny Allen, Lloyd Brown and George Blaeholder all have been showing plenty of stuff and if Willis Hudlin takes a new lease on life the Indians will have a pitching staff that may make the fans forget the Tigers, the Red Sox, the Yankees and the rest. Harold Trosky, the fence buster, Earl Averill, Joe Vosmik and Bruce Campbell seem capable of taking care of the heavy batting chores.

Trosky is leading the league in home runs with five and his 16 runs batted in is only one behind Bill Dickey of the Yanks.

Brown, Harder, Allen and Blaeholder all have gone the distance and won. Harder and Allen each have notched two victories single-handed.

Blaeholder came into his own in his first start of the season yesterday when he held the St. Louis Browns to seven hits and won his game 2-1, but it was Campbell's homer in the seventh that provided the winning run.

Reds Play 10 Innings

It was the only game played in the American League, the only other major league contest being played in the National circuit where the Cincinnati Reds nosed out the Cubs 5-4 in 10 innings.

The Indians scored their first run in the opening frame when Roy Hughes singled to right, stole second, went to third on Averill's fly to the outfield and came home on Vosmik's single to left.

The Browns tied the score in the fourth on Harland Clift's triple and Rollie Hemsley's single to left. It was Cleveland's fifth victory in six games with the Browns.

Ernie Lombardi's double with two gone in the last of the tenth started the Reds on the road to victory. Tommy Thevenow met one of Lon Warneke's slants for a single and the game was over. Warneke went into the game in the sixth after Larry French had been taken out for a pinch hitter and until that tenth inning gave the rising Reds only two singles.

Billy Herman, the two bagger king of last year, connected for another of his favorite blows, along with a triple, while Chuck Klein picked up three safeties for himself.

Umpires "Walk" Grimes for 3rd Time This Year

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 28 — Manager Burleigh Grimes of the Louisville Colonels, if he holds his present pace, may set a record this season for being chased out of American Association games.

The fiery Grimes was ordered to the showers yesterday as his club took a 3-1 beating from St. Paul. It was the third time since the season opened that Grimes, former major league spitball twirling star, has been ordered off the field.

On Sunday Grimes was chased for disputing ball and strike decisions. Yesterday he didn't like the way Umpire Rue was calling them on the Louisville hurler, "Buck" Marrow, and Rue waved the Colonel pilot to the showers.

The Saints scored twice in the ninth on two walks and Steinbacker's double to win. It was St. Paul's third straight victory over the crippled Colonels, who have four regulars out of their line-up.

Minneapolis and Indianapolis and Kansas City and Columbus were rained out. Milwaukee and Toledo were not scheduled.

DERBY TOWN QUIET BUT RUSH WILL COME FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Brevity's the Horse To Beat, But Plenty of Turf Talent Challenges Him.

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 28.—Like a mighty volcano, seething to unloosen its roaring charge, this Blue Grass metropolis awaited today the sixty-second running of the Kentucky Derby.

Outwardly there was little to indicate that four days hence the pick of the three-year-olds would answer the bugle call at Churchill Downs for the country's greatest turf classic.

Multi-colored banners, strung across the business streets, gaily dressed windows and the columns of the press quietly reminded one that this is Derby week. But there was no hysteria.

Underneath all this seemingly unconcerned appearance, however, there was a restlessness, which, if it runs true to form, will burst loose with a roar Friday and Saturday, when the multitude descends on the city.

Hotel clerks carried a worried look as they sought to find ways to crowd a few more into space long since reserved.

The Downs itself will not assume a festive atmosphere until the day before the race. Today its straggling stands were bare and forsaken except in spots where the few thousand gather to watch several of the leading Derby candidates match strides in the one mile of "the trial."

Across the track in the green-painted barns, there was a different story. Here could be found activity as the horsemen went about the task of preparing the three-year-olds for the big race.

Here and there could be found a group of exercise boys or jockeys discussing only one subject—the Derby. Almost without exception they picked J. E. Widener's Brevity as the horse to beat over the one and one-quarter miles. Asked to pick a horse most likely to turn the trick and they were almost as far apart as the poles.

One mentioned William Woodward's Granville.

"But what's the matter with Grand Slam," countered another.

"I'll take Banister," replied a little colored boy who must have been from E. R. Bradley's stable).

And then in rapid succession came the names of such good horses as The Fighter, Teufel, Colstream and Indian Broom.

Masked Terror Floors LaRue in 13 Minutes; Hill's Face Gashed

A human mountain in the form of the Masked Terror, crashed down on Johnny LaRue of Dallas, Tex., last night, to smash any hope the lanky grappler had of scoring the third consecutive win over the Masked one. Without a referee in the ring at the Shovel gymnasium the Masked veteran, used 13 minutes to score the decisive one fall. Lifting LaRue to his full height and slamming him to the mat the Terror registered the actual fall by pinning the Texan's weary frame to the mat with a body press.

Wild Red Berry of Pittsburg, Kan., considered one of the toughest mat men to show here in a long time demonstrated that along with his meanness he still retains a bit of sportsmanship. When his opponent, Frankie Hill of Hollywood, Calif. was unable to return after the first fall, Berry offered to call the bout a draw. Hill, although unable to finish the scrap, had scored the first fall. A severe gash beneath his left eye suffered when he rushed Berry kept the Californian from returning.

Jim Logas, Detroit's toughest Greek, battered his way to a 11-minute fall over Frank Slavik of Toronto Can., in the scheduled 30-minute preliminary. Logas scored the fall with a body press, after slamming his opponent about the ring almost at will.

With no referee in the squared circle during the Terror-LaRue encounter, the boys were kept within reason by the announcement that at the first display of illegal holds or punches the offender's share of the purse would be awarded to his opponent. LaRue's headlock early in the match had the Terror worried. In an attempt to break the hold, the Terror caused himself to be spilled to the mat. Finally edging into the ropes, the grappler broke at the insistence of Referee Tom Temple, who witnessed the match from ringside.

Following the Terror's break of the headlock the wrestlers mauled each other about the ring, both landing hard blows. LaRue's advantage when he spilled the Terror with a series of rights faded away when the Masked one began his bone-crushing activity. The slams to the mat made LaRue groggy, and it was an easy matter for the Terror to score the fall.

Frankie Hill scored the opening fall over Wild Red Berry in slightly over 25 minutes. Red was using a back body drop when Hill caught the ropes and pounced on the western hussy. Just a few minutes before, Hill charged into the ropes to hit Berry, who had edged through for protection. Hill's face struck his opponent's knee, opening a gash under his left eye which required six stitches to close. The injured wrestler was attended at the City hospital after the completion of the program.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

A CLEVER YOKE ADDS SMARTNESS TO A SLENDERIZING "SHIRTMAKER"

Not too slender? If you'd know your lines, you'll be delighted with this version of the shirtwaist frock which has been designed by Anne Adams for the mature figure. A flattering roll collar emphasizes the natural effect of the sleeve-yoke-vest (a real three-in-one feature which is easy to cut and sew). The button-front bodice line is continued into the skirt with the center pleat and will take inches from your hips and add them to your height. The large patch pockets are both smart and useful.

Pattern 2673 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4½ yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Order our new Anne Adams pattern book and learn how easily you can make a smart summer wardrobe that's just your style! The latest frocks, suits, blouses; beach and vacation clothes; bridal outfits. Lovely clothes for children, too. Smart styles for stouts... And a full picture-story of summer fabrics and accessories. Price of book 15 cents. Book and a pattern together, 25 cents.
